LITTLE BUSINESS TODAY

London, May 31.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Tokio says it is expected an attack on Port Arthur will begin June 15. Correspondents leave Tokio June 10 in time to see the capture of Port Arthur, which is expected to occur about June 20th.

JAP GUNBOAT DAMAGED.
Chefoo, May 31.—Japanese gunboat No. 3 according to a report received here, was damaged by shells from the Port Arthur forts Monday. The gunboat reconnoitered near the shore and drew fire from the fortress, which killed one of the petty officers and injured three others. One gun was badly damaged.

JAPS CAPTURE A PASS.

Chefoo, May 31.—A Manchurian merchant here claims he has information that the Japanese have occupied Motion Ling pass in the mountains a hundred miles northwest of Feng Huang Cheng, and directly east of Liao Yang. This is the only pass through the mountains on the road to Liao Yang, and it had long been expected that the Russians would take a firm stand there to prevent a further advance of the Japanese.

WOUNDED JAPS EMBARK.

Rome, May 31.—A message from Tokio states that nearly all the guns captured by the Japanese at Kinchow are in excellent condition. Two thousand wounded Japanese have been embarked at Kinchow for Japan.

RUSSIA ORDERS SUBMARINES.

Berlin, May 31.—It is stated that Russia has ordered ten submarine boats from the Holland company at Boston. A heavy premium is offered for each boat completed by November.

WILL NOT MARCH ARMY.

St. Petersburg, May 31.—It is denied here that General Kropotkin will attempt the salvation of Port Arthur by marching a large army down the peninsula as reported.

CONDITION OF DALNY.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—The Japanese legation received the following officially from Tokio today: "General Oku, commander of the army operating against Port Arthur, reports that our troops occupied Dalny, May 30. Over a hundred warehouses and barracks, besides the telegraph offices and railway station were found uninjured. Over 200 railway cars are usable but all the railway bridges in the neighborhood had been destroyed. The docks, piers, except the great pier which was sunk, were uninjured. Some steam launches were also sunk at the mouth of the dock."

JAP VESSELS LOST.

Mukden, May 31.—A report reached here today that the Japanese lost a gunboat and two torpedo boats in the attack on Port Arthur Saturday. The attack was made in an attempt to block the harbor at Port Arthur.

ORDERED AWAY FROM LIAO YANG.

St. Petersburg, May 31.—Dispatches from Liao Yang state that women and children are being ordered away from Liao Yang and Mukden.

MERCHANTS' BANQUET.

The Retail Merchants' association will tomorrow evening hold a social session and banquet at the Knights of Pythias hall, and Colonel J. J. Dorian, formerly a regular member but now an honorary member, will preside as toastmaster. Colonel Dorian was disqualified as a regular member when he retired from business to accept the position of city treasurer, but has since been an honorary member. A pleasant evening is anticipated.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—It is likely that the United States will ask France to co-operate in the effort to rescue Perdicaris, who was kidnapped by bandits in Morocco. France stands well in Morocco and it is believed can do much. A dispatch from Tangier reports that the American gunboats Marietta and Castine arrived last night. This makes four American vessels at Tangier in the effort to effect the release of Perdicaris.

KILLED BY PEAS.

New York, May 31.—Giuseppe Obrazo, his wife, Marie, his daughter, Angelina, 18 years old, and his sons, Vincent, 14 and Antonio, 11, had a can of peas for supper. A short time later they were taken ill and rapidly grew worse. A physician advised that the family go to a hospital, but they refused. Saturday the elder son died, today Angelina died, and Antonio is beyond help.

TAMMANY COMING ROUND.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31.—Boss Murphy of Tammany has had nothing to say since Cleveland came out in his last interview about Judge Parker. It is believed now that Tammany will withdraw its objection to Judge Parker.

FIVE IN RACE RIOT.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 31.—Five persons were seriously hurt yesterday afternoon in a race riot here, and a score or more were roughly handled.

The police have not ascertained the cause of the trouble.

KILLED WHOLE FAMILY.

Cambridge, O., May 31.—Andrew Messer killed his young wife and year old child and then killed himself. Domestic difficulties were the cause.

LOCAL DIVORCES

Judge W. M. Reed Has Given
Attorneys Due Notice.

Must Have Good Grounds and Strong Proof.

Circuit Judge W. M. Reed has informed local attorneys from the bench that he will during his term of office require the strongest of proof to sustain the best of grounds before granting divorce in his court.

He will grant no divorce on flimsy allegations, and will stop the practice of bringing suit for divorce on trivial grounds with the expectation of getting a decree on slim proof.

The attorneys seem to all understand that they must have good grounds, and support the allegations with the strongest of proof.

ANOTHER SUICIDE

RESULTS FROM THE GILLESPIE CASE AT RISING SUN.

Rising Sun, Ind., May 31.—Tom Moore, living near here, committed suicide today by hanging himself from a beam. He became insane over the Gillespie case.

TOOK MORPHINE.

Mrs. Roland Duncan, wife of a barber, took morphine yesterday afternoon late, it is claimed with suicidal intent, but Drs. Roberson and Hoyer were called and she was in a few hours out of danger. She resides on North Ninth street.

The most important question to the city since the brick street proposition came up and bonds were voted last fall for street improvements is that referred to a committee last night by the joint street committee of the general council and Board of Public Works. It has been generally supposed that in reconstructing the streets the city was to pay half the costs of the street proper and all the costs for intersections, but that the property owner was to pay half the costs of the street, and all the cost of building the sidewalks.

The claim has now been made that the city must also pay half the costs of the sidewalk reconstruction, in addition to half the costs of the streets. This question has been referred to the committee, and a decision is expected shortly.

The reason that the question is of such importance is that it means in the neighborhood of $50,000 to the city, or vice versa, that much to the property owners.

If it is decided that the entire cost of the pavement must fall on the property owners, the city will be saved this amount. If, on the other hand, it is decided that the city must pay half, then it means $50,000 less to spend for paving the streets, or about ten blocks less than has been calculated on all the time.

The clause in the charter applying in this case seems to be ambiguous, and various attorneys who casually read it today gave it as their opinion that it might easily be construed either way.

When Attorney J. M. Werten was city solicitor he gave the general council an opinion that the city must pay half the cost of the sidewalks as well as of the street, but the city declined to accept the opinion and has required the property owners on the blocks paved by Mr. Torrell to pay all the costs. It seems from reports that the matter will have to be taken to the Court of Appeals for a construction of the law.

Further complications will then arise, as those who have already paid the entire cost of the sidewalk reconstruction under the Terrell contract may sue the city and recover half in case the decision goes against the city.

The significance of the question may be readily seen from the following figures:

Approximate cost of one block of brick street, $3,600.

The city's half, $1,800.

Cost of granite sidewalk, one block, $1,675.

The city's half, $787.

This $787 on fifty or sixty blocks of street construction, which is the amount intended to be made in Paducah under the bond issue, would amount to between $40,000 and $50,000, and the latter would have to come out of the amount intended to be spent exclusively for the streets proper.

It is not known which way the matter will be decided, but some claim that as the city requires a property owner to pay for building streets and sidewalks originally and to pay for half of the street when it is reconstructed, it is not right, and the law does not expect him to have to pay all of the sidewalk reconstruction, but that the city should pay half of it as well as of the street.

Others, on the other hand, express the opinion that a sidewalk enhances a man's property in proportion to its quality, etc., and that he should have to pay the entire cost of improving it, partly because it is more a part of his property than

Frank Young, a negro royston on the packet John S. Hopkins, was knocked or pushed off the boat into the Ohio river at Love's Leap, just below Golconda, this morning about 7 o'clock by Will Proctor, another royston, who escaped at Bayou Mills, Ky., while the boat was landing to discharge freight. The affair was witnessed by more than a dozen roystons who did not interfere because they did not think Proctor would shove Young off the boat. Just after Golconda had been left, Proctor and Young, got into an argument over Proctor calling Young a name. Young told him not to repeat it and picked up a lump of coal. Proctor also picked up a lump of coal and Young was working his way towards the head of the boat to escape from Proctor when the latter clinched with him and pushed him towards the edge of the deck. The two men scuttled awhile and finally Proctor broke loose, gave Young a hard shove and struck him in the head with a lump of coal.

The man was evidently rendered unconscious by the blow as he never arose again after falling overboard. The boat was stopped and laid to for more than half an hour. A boat was lowered and the officers of the Hopkins got in and searched, but without success. Proctor jumped off the boat and ran at Bayou Mills and the boat crew was unable to catch him. Officers were notified of the tragedy at Smithland and are on the lookout for Proctor.

Young lived at Evansville, as far as can be learned, and Proctor is said to be a native of Birdsville.

The Hopkins was delayed nearly an hour by the affair and arrived here just before ten o'clock.

COMMITTEE NAMED AT JOINT MEETING

To Investigate Cost of Sidewalk Reconstruction.

Some Want City to Pay Half—Broadway Ordinance Is Ordered.

UNIFORMITY QUESTION UP

The board of public works, members of the joint street committee of the general council, the mayor and city engineer and others met at the city hall yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the following committee was appointed to designate districts for uniform improvements, when the bond issue street improvements are made: Alderman Singletary and Orme, Councilman Smedley and President Noble, of the board of public works. They will specify in which localities granite sidewalks must be constructed and in which they may be of brick.

The city solicitor was instructed to draw an ordinance for improving Broadway from Fifth to Ninth street. The matter of requiring the city to pay half of the sidewalk improvements, as well as street reconstruction, was discussed and the city solicitor asked to inquire into the law and make a report. If it should be decided to do this the amount of street improvements to be made under the bond issue would be greatly curtailed, as the city would then have to stand half the cost of sidewalks reconstruction.

The board of public works now has the street roller at work on South Third street from Kentucky avenue up. It is expected that the reconstruction of sidewalks along South Third street will begin shortly. Inspector George Gardner is notifying all property owners who have not connected with the sewerage to immediately connect drain pipes with the storm water sewerage, as there are now no gutter outlets from Kentucky to Broadway on Third.

Excavations for storm water sewers on the east side of the street will begin at once. The pipes are to be laid half way up the block.

"The proof of the padding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof on the following subject it is Paducah. Genuine merit is finding its reward in the hearty endorsement of local citizens. When people right here at home, friends and neighbors of our readers, give a statement like the following for publication, it is proof convincing for the most skeptical. Read this testimony:

Mrs. Chas. Williams, of 700 Terrell Street, says: "Despite the use of plasters and home remedies, my back ached almost continually, and as my husband who is employed by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., on Third street, continually complained of his, we were both constantly on the outlook for some means to check or eradicate the cause. Reading one night about Doan's Kidney Pills induced us to get that remedy at Du Bois & Co's drug store and take a course of the treatment. Two boxes thoroughly proved that the preparation does up to the representations made for it.

St. Louis, May 31.—Captain Thomas Garrison, who piloted the torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence from St. Louis to New Orleans, returned today. He reported that the destroyer broke every river record for speed over made by a Mississippi river steamer.

The fastest time was made between Baton Rouge and Bayou Sara, La., when the boat recorded slightly more than 37 miles an hour. The distance from Memphis to Helena, 100 miles, was made in three hours and ten minutes, beating the record of the fast passenger packets by more than two hours.

ONE VESSEL

AND IT WAS THE WHOLE OF THE HONDURAS NAVY.

New Orleans, La., May 31.—The entire Honduran navy sailed up the Mississippi river and anchored in front of the city. During its progress northward there was not a salute offered, no sign of welcome of any kind shown it. In utter silence the navy steamed into the harbor and anchored. It consisted of one vessel, and so diminutive was it that nobody who saw it imagined that they were gazing at the armed strength of the republic of Honduras. The gunboat Tatumbi is the navy, and vice versa. She has taken part in nearly every revolution which has occurred in Central America in recent years, and has never failed to come off victorious. She is said to have sunk numerous fleets of the enemy, when those fleets were fishing schooners. The Tatumbi will remain here several days, repairing her boilers, before going to St. Louis.

FAILURES OF DETECTIVES.

The result of the noted Bedford, and Rising Sun, Ind., murder cases, show the folly of leaving the detection of criminals to professional detectives from a distance. McDonald, an illiterate laborer, was cast into jail months ago charged with killing a young lady. There was no evidence against him, so far as anyone except the "detectives" knew. A clamorous public was simply told that the detectives had worked up the case, and had an unbroken chain of evidence which would be made public at the trial. For a time there was danger of lynching the man, not because of any genuine evidence against him, but simply because the "detectives" who were working for a reward aggregating about $1,000, claimed that they had had the evidence. When the case was tried there was not even any circumstantial evidence against the accused. His arrest turned out to be only a four-flush of professional detectives and he was acquitted. Detectives undoubtedly have their uses in a great many cases, but in working up the average case the police authorities in the locality are worth a whole regiment of detectives, especially those who arrive on the scene with a blast of trumpets and have themselves interviewed every day. There is no telling how many innocent men have been sent to the gallows or prison through testimony manufactured by the detectives for the purpose of claiming a reward.

Justice is perhaps more often obviated by the offering of rewards than otherwise. The $100,000 Goebel corruption fund in Kentucky is one proof of this, as for several years innocent men have been hounded and persecuted by professional detectives and politicians whose only object is to convict somebody. It makes no difference who it is, one to get the money and the other to wreak vengeance on political opponents for a crime it has never been shown who committed. The word "detective" inspires the average person with awe, and a jury readily takes his word in preference to that of many others who know more and are more honest and trustworthy.

But a few more Indiana murder cases will probably suffice to give people of a community more confidence in their own police departments.

The detective has always been largely a sham, and in more cases a failure than otherwise. In the cities newspaper reporters have frequently worked up murder cases and brought criminals to justice after the entire detective force had exhausted every resource and abandoned the case. With hundreds of detectives in St. Louis, it was a newspaper man who exposed the hoodlum and started a movement that gave the entire state a jolt. This is not for the purpose of exalting the newspaper reporter, but to show up the average detective.

A serious feature of the wholesale claims for damages against the city because of alleged working prisoners contrary to law, is what effect it will have on the $200,000 bond issue. While the suits may amount to nothing ultimately, the fact that they exist as a menace against the finances of the city may have a bad effect when the bonds are placed in the market. The possibility of such an effect is another result of the slothful methods of the administration. The bonds were voted last November, and could have been sold long ago if any effort had been made to sell them. The administration has loitered along and let six months slip by without doing anything, and if the city escapes the inevitable penalty of procrastination the people may feel fortunate indeed.

The administration cannot shirk the responsibility for the damage suits of six prisoners by claiming the city solicitor did not advise it as to the law. The city solicitor advised the general council that under the law the tax list must be published twice a year, but the general council ignored him. The public printer then sued and won the case and the taxpayers, although the list was not published, will have to pay $260 for it just the same. Granting for the sake of argument that the solicitor said nothing about working prisoners on the street, it does not follow that the administration would have followed his advice if he had given it, any more than in the tax list case.

It is stated that the city jail is not infested with vermin, and the public is invited to call and see for itself. Now don't everybody rush in at once.

Rain tonight and probably Wednesday.

WHEN THEIR WOUNDS SUFFICIENTLY HEAL

Mollie Hood and Belle Milliken, the negro women who cut each other Sunday about three miles from the city in the Perdew neighborhood beyond Littleville, are doing well.

The Wood woman is much better and the Milliken woman is suffering but little, having been slightly cut once or twice.

County Physician Pendley, who is attending the Wood woman, stated that she had several of the worst wounds he ever dressed, being literally slashed to pieces. No arrests have yet been made, but the women will be arrested and arraigned when they are able to appear in court.

JAIL BROKEN

PRISONERS MUST STAY IN CELLS FOR THREE DAYS.

The prisoners in the county jail must remain in their cells for three days. The cells revolve about on steel balls, and yesterday afternoon late the ball bearings became deranged by the frame around them breaking and threw the big cage out of line. The prisoners were in the corridor at the time but the cage was by force brought around until they were all in their cells, and today Mr. Sam Foerman began the work of repairing it. He thinks it will require three days to finish it, and in the meantime the cage cannot be moved and the prisoners cannot get out of their cells.

A Suggestion for Prudent Men

To the average man five or ten dollars a month saved appears too insignificant to pay for the effort, yet a laying aside of ten dollars each month and the judicious investment of it may prove the beginning of a fortune.

These ends are accomplished through the LEVEL PREMIUM SIX-YEAR BONDS of the Southern Mutual Investment Company of Lexington, Kentucky, which specifies the length of the investment period, seventy-four months, consequently the company may buy longer term securities than savings banks, which pay larger profits and are at the same time just as safe. The Southern Mutual Investment Company distributes all earnings amongst investors, in proportion to their investments. Furthermore, this company handles only the safest securities, taking no speculative chances, so that there is no possibility of loss to the bondholder, and he is further protected by the company's deposit of $100,000 with the Kentucky State Treasurer; by the facts that all officers and employees are heavily bonded in Fidelity Companies, and the business is controlled by state laws and under the supervision of state officials.

One unusually attractive feature of the Level Premium Six-Year Bond is that the redemption of coupons during the term of the contract secures an income to the bondholder, which, of course, may be compounded by reinvesting—a thing not accomplished under any other form of installment investment.

Men in any station of life may buy these bonds, and every one receives returns in absolute proportion to the size of the investment. The bond may be paid for by monthly installments of as little as $2.25, and any multiple of $2.25 may be invested.

This company, with its past experience and present earnings as criteria, estimates that out a net investment of $740 (extending over a period of seventy-four months) in this bond the holder should receive a profit of $93.33-1-3.

Does any other institution, affording the same security, pay as great a profit in an equal period of time?

A FEW FACTS ABOUT
The Southern Mutual Investment Company

Has been in active operation ten years.

Has accumulated assets of over $950,000.00.

Has paid investors over $1,400,000.00.

Rev. G. T. Sullivan, presiding elder of the Memphis district, writes under date of Dec. 1, 1903:

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

Deputy Sheriff Will Lydon is a wit. The other day the jury panel was exhausted, and Judge Reed said: "Mr. Sheriff, I wish you'd look around here and select a few good, honest men from the bystanders."

The deputy looked, mischievously about the room at his friends and acquaintances and replied: "Judge, I don't believe I can find 'em in this crowd."

A prominent ex-official has concluded that it is unprudent to wear "phony" jewelry, especially where it is taken for the real thing. Not long since he received a notice that his property had been raised, and appeared before the supervisors to have the assessment reduced.

He had in his shirt front a supposed gem of purest true sapphire, and after he had told his story to the supervisors, one old fellow remarked: "Well, I see you're able to wear diamonds. You didn't need to, so I guess you're able to stand the raise."

"Oh," replied the ex-official, "you can get all these you want for six-bits apiece down town."

The supervisors were not connoisseurs, however, and refused to be convinced or to reduce the assessment, and the ex-official blames the "spark" for it all.

A conductor on the Henderson district of the Illinois Central, who has been in the service many years, is considered one of the most popular men on the road. The passengers all notice that he is never without his batoniere, and it puzzled some of his regulars to know where he got them. By way of enlightenment at the end of his run he took some of them to the front car and showed them huge baskets of all kinds of fragrant flowers. They were given to him by his little girl friends along the line. At almost every small station where the train stopped there was a cheery face to greet him and a tiny hand to give him a big bunch of fresh ones. In the spring and in summer, when flowers are plentiful, it is a daily occurrence when the weather is pretty, and many of his little friends never forget him even on rainy days.

Next to a monkey at the circus, the antics of the individual who has imbibed not wisely but to well, are about the most laughable things conceivable. The other day a man sat placidly on the edge of a street fountain apparently not bothered with thoughts of this world or the next. The water bubbled and gurgled merrily in the basin and flowed out of a drain pipe to the side. The surface of the water was fully half a foot below the bosom of his trousers, and a crowd of small boys who had been flitting about hoping the man would try to walk or do something else to amuse them, finally decided to take the initiative. They snatched a newspaper and cautiously creeping up behind, stuffed it into the drain pipe, and thus shutting off the water's escape, waited for the basin to fill.

It filled slowly but surely, and in the course of time gently permeated the sitter's trousers, but still he remained motionless. Presently the water swelled up, trickled down his trousers' legs and began to run over the edge of the basin. He looked about a moment in bewilderment, felt of himself, and then with a yell straightened up and hastened away. There was a scurrying of small feet, a few half-smothered laughs and then the jokers withdrew to a place of safety to watch him amble home for dry clothing.

The Filigree Ball

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Mystery of Agatha Webb," "Lost Man's Lane," Etc.

Copyright, 1902, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company ever realize what it was for me, still loving, still clinging to a wild unconscious belief in my wife, to grope in that mouth of hell for the spring she had chattered about in her sleep, to find it, press it, and then to hear, down in the dark of the fearsome recess, the sound of something deadly strike against what I took to be the cushions of the old settle standing at the edge of the library hearthstone.

"I think I must have fainted, for when I found myself possessed of sufficient consciousness to withdraw from that hole of death the candle in the candelabrum was shorter by an inch than when I first thrust my head into the gap made by the removed drawers. In putting back the drawers I left the candelabrum with my foot, upsetting it and throwing out the burning candle. As the flames began to lick the worm eaten bending of the floor in momentary impulse seized me to rush away and leave the whole place to burn, but I did not. With a sudden frenzy I stamped out the flame and then, finding myself in darkness, groped my way downstairs and out. If I entered the library I do not remember it. Some lapses must be pardoned a man involved as I was."

"But the fact which you dismiss so lightly is an important one," insisted the major. "We must know positively whether you entered this room or not."

"I have no recollection of doing so."

"Then you cannot tell us whether the little table was standing there, with the candelabrum upon it?"

"I tell you nothing about it."

The major, after a long look at this suffering man, turned toward Miss Tuttle.

"You must have loved your sister very much," he sententiously remarked.

She flushed, and for the first time her eyes fell from their resting place on Mr. Jeffrey's face.

"I loved her reputation," was her quiet answer, "and"—The rest died in her throat.

But we all—such of us, I mean, who were possessed of the least sensibility or insight—knew how that sentence sounded as finished in her heart. "And I loved him who asked this sacrifice of me."

Yet was her conduct not quite clear.

"And to save that reputation you tilted the pistol to her wrist?" Inquired the major.

"No," was her vehement reply. "I never knew what I was tying to her. My testimony in that regard was absolutely true. She held the pistol concealed in the folds of her dress. I did not dream—I could not—that she was contemplating any such end to the atrocious crime to which she had confessed. Her manner was too light, too airy and too frivolous—a manner adopted, as I now see, to forestall all questions and hold back all expressions of feeling on my part. The three hanging ends of ribbon to my wrist," were her words.

"The them tight; a knot under and a bow on top. I am going out. There, don't say anything. What you want to talk about will keep till tomorrow. For one night more I am going to make merry—to enjoy myself." She was laughing. I thought her horribly callous and trembled with such an unspeakable repulsion that I had difficulty in making the knot. To speak at all would have been impossible. Neither did I dare to look in her face. I was touching the hand that—and she kept on laughing—such a low laugh covering up such an awful resolve! When she turned to give me that last injunction about the note this resolve glared still in her eyes."

"And you never suspected?"

"Not for an instant. I did not do justice either to her misery or to her conscience. I fear that I have never done her justice in any way. I thought her light, pleasure loving. I did not know that it was assumed to hide a terrible secret."

"Then you had no knowledge of the contract she had entered into while a schoolgirl?"

"Not in the least. Another woman and not myself had been her confidant, a woman who has since died. No information of her first unfortunate marriage had ever reached me till Mr. Jeffrey rushed in upon me that Tuesday morning with her dreadful confession on his lips."

The district attorney, who did not seem quite satisfied on a certain point passed over by the major, now took the opportunity of saying:

"You assure us that you had no idea that this once light hearted sister of yours meditated suicide when she left you?"

"And I repeat it, sir."

"Then why did you immediately go to Mr. Jeffrey's drawer, where you could have no business, unless it was to see if she had taken his pistol with her?"

Miss Tuttle's head fell, and a soft flush broke through the pallor of her cheek.

"Because I was thinking of him; because I was terrified for him. He had left the house the morning before in a half maddened condition and had not come back to sleep or eat since. I did not know what a man so outraged in every sacred feeling of love and honor might be tempted to do. I thought of suicide. I remembered the old house and how he had said: 'I don't believe her. I don't believe she ever did so cold-blooded an act or that any such dreadful machinery is in that house. I never shall believe it till I have seen and handled it myself. It is a nightmare, Cora. We are insane.' I thought of this, sirs, and when I went into her room to change the place of the little note in the book I went to his bureau drawer not to look for the pistol—I did not think of that then—but to see if the keys of the Moore house were still there. I knew that they were kept in this drawer, for I had been present in the room when they were brought in after the wedding. I had also been shortsighted enough to conclude that if they were gone it was he who had taken them. They were gone, and that was why I flew immediately from the house to the old place in Waverley avenue. I was concerned for Mr. Jeffrey. I feared to find him there, demented or dead."

"But you had no key."

"No; Mr. Jeffrey had taken one of them and my sister the other, but the lack of a key or even of a light, for the missing candles were not taken by me [we afterward found that these candles were never delivered at the house at all; that they had been placed in the wrong basket and left in a neighboring kitchen], could not keep me at home after I was once convinced that he had gone to this dreadful house. If I could not get in I could at least hammer at the door or rouse the neighbors. Something must be done. I did not think what I merely knew."

"Did you know that the house had two keys?"

"Not then."

"But your sister did?"

"Probably."

"And finding the only key, as you supposed, gone, you flew to the Moore house?"

"Immediately."

"And now what else?"

"I found the door unlocked."

"That was done by Mrs. Jeffrey?"

"Yes, but I did not think of her then."

"And you went in?"

"Yes; it was all dark, but I felt my way till I came to the gilded pillars."

"Why did you go there?"

"Because I felt—I knew—if he were anywhere in that house he would be there."

"And why did you stop?"

Her voice rose above its usual quiet pitch in shrill protest:

"You know you know! I heard a pistol shot from within, then a fall. I don't remember anything else. They say I went wandering about town, perhaps I did; it is all a blank to me."

Everyone said that my sister was dead and I learned for the first time that the shot I had heard in the Moore house was not the signal of his death, but hers. Had I been myself when at that "library" door?" she added, after a moment of silence, "I would have rushed in at the sound of that shot and have received my sister's dying breath."

"Cor!" The cry was from Mr. Jeffrey, and seemed to be quite involuntary. "In the weeks during which we have been kept from speaking together I have turned all these events over in my mind till I longed for any respite, even that of the grave. But in all my thinking I never attributed this motive to your visit here. Will you forgive me?"

There was a new tone in his voice, a tone which no woman could hear without emotion.

"You had other things to think of," she said, and her lips trembled. Never have I seen on the human face a more beautiful expression than I saw on hers at that moment; nor do I think Mr. Jeffrey had either, for as he marked it his own regard softened almost to tenderness.

The major had no time for sentimentalities. Turning to Mr. Jeffrey, he said:

"One more question before we send for the letter which you say will give us full insight into your wife's crime. Do you remember what occurred on the bridge at Georgetown just before you came into town that night?"

He shook his head.

"Did you meet any one there?"

"I do not know."

"Can you remember your state of mind?"

"I was facing the future."

"And what did you see in the future?"

"Death. Death for her and death for me! A crime was on her soul, and she must die; and if she, then myself, I knew no other course. I could not summon the police, point out my bride of a fortnight and, with the declaration that she had been betrayed into killing a man, coldly deliver her up to justice. Neither could I live at her side knowing the guilty secret which parted us, or live anywhere in the world under this same consciousness. Therefore, I meant to kill myself before another sun rose. But she was more deeply stricken with a sense of her own guilt than I realized. When I returned home for the pistol which was to end our common misery I found that she had taken her punishment into her own hands. This strangely affected me, but when I found that, in doing this, she had remembered that I should have to face the world after she was gone and so left a few lines for me to show in explanation of her act, my revolt against her received a check which the reading of her letter only increased. But the lines she thus wrote and left were not true lines. All her heart was mine, and if it was a wicked heart she has atoned!"

He paused, quite overcome. Others among us were overcome, too, but only for a moment. The following remark from the district attorney soon recalled us to the practical aspects of the case:

"And I repeat it, sir."

"Then why did you immediately go to Mr. Jeffrey's drawer, where you could have no business, unless it was to see if she had taken his pistol with her?"

"You assure us that you had no idea that this once light hearted sister of yours meditated suicide when she left you?"

LIVELY TIME

IS EXPECTED WHEN ORDERS FOR CONFINEMENT FOR SOLDIERS COME.

There is likely to be a warm time when the orders arrive from Frankfort for the incarceration of members of the local militia who refused to pay the fines imposed on them by court martial.

Sheriff Potter states that he will have nothing to do with arresting the soldiers, as it is not a part of his duty, but as Jailer Fayette Jones, after consulting with his attorneys, decided that he would be compelled to accept such prisoners on a commitment from the governor of the state, the boys may be arrested with a squad and thus delivered to the jailer.

THE TEACHERS

MANY WILL ATTEND SCHOOL THIS SUMMER.

A number of teachers in the local public schools are preparing to go away for the summer to attend school to better their teaching certificates.

It is thought that at least one third of the teachers will go to some summer school, and Miss Lieb stated this morning that from what he could hear the number might reach one half.

The teachers are to be paid hereafter according to the class certificates they hold. There will be two examinations held, one immediately after the close of school and one in August.

Some teachers will attend school for six weeks while others will go throughout the summer, taking the examinations when they return.

CONDUCTOR HURT

HE WAS THROWN DOWN BY HIS TRAIN.

Conductor Lamb, who ran on a freight train north of Paducah on the Louisville division of the I. C., was brought to the city this morning with an injured knee, the injury being sustained in an accident up the road last night.

Conductor Lamb started to board his coach while the train was moving and caught his foot in the track. He was thrown aside and alighted on his knee. The knee is badly bruised and Mr. Lamb will be unable to walk for some time.

MUCH WIRING.

MANY PLACES ARE BEING THOROUGHLY RE-WIRED IN PADUCAH.

The city is being well re-wired in accordance with recommendations from Inspector Berrett, of Chicago, who frequently went through the business part of the city. The electricians have all they can do. Every day is their busy day, and they have about completed work in all buildings to Fourth street. Very few of the property owners, they say, have failed to order the work desired by the inspector.

BIG CONTRACT

French Regie to be Awarded Thursday for This Section.

The Purchases This Year Will Be Only 20 Per Cent. of the Past Year.

A big tobacco contract is to be awarded Thursday, June 2nd. It is for the French Regie, and no change is anticipated. The contractors live in New York and submit contracts for furnishing the tobacco in various localities. Mr. Bornemann, of Paducah, furnishes most of the tobacco for this section. No change is anticipated.

It is understood that the French contract this coming year will represent only about 20 per cent. of the amount purchased last year, the crop not suiting the contractors. This is said to be the reason the purchases of the Imperial, or English trust, and the Continental, or American trust, have fallen short this year.

MINOR SIGHTED

Officers Fired Many Shots at Fleeing Desperadoes.

They Escaped in the Woods and are Probably Still Going Towards Cairo.

Rufe Minor and a companion whose name the police say they do not know were sighted this morning about 4:30 o'clock on a freight train coming in over the Illinois Central from Cairo. Minor is the negro wanted for assaulting Mr. James Crow on the Dick Fowler excursion yesterday, and he and his companion stole their way back to Paducah on the train after being put off the boat.

The negro ran when Officers Thad Terrell and John McCune took after them, and ran fast. Anywhere from dozen to 25 shots were fired at the fleeing fugitives by the officers as they pursued them to the woods, but the negroes managed to vanish near the Terrell farm, and are probably still going towards Cairo.

DIED IN CITY HOSPITAL.

George Alexander, colored, age 42, formerly of Catondale, Ill., died at 7 o'clock this morning at the city hospital of dropsy. He leaves no relatives as far as the hospital officials know. He came to the hospital a little over a week ago and was in a serious condition when he arrived. The remains will be buried tomorrow in the Potter's field unless relatives are heard from and authorize the body to be shipped to Illinois, his former home.

Dreams of the Grass.
O! to be a dragonfly!
O! to dream of the plain!

Where the west wind sings as it passes,
A weird and uncaring refrain!

Where the rank grass tosses and waves!

And the platin' rim dazzles the eye,
Where hardly a silver cloud looses
The flashing steel shield of the sky!

To watch the grey walls as they glitter
Like snowflakes, and fall from on high

To dip in the deeps of the prairie;

Or when the crow goes winging away,

Like the song of a soft winter's day;

To the harsh, shrill break of the cricket,

And the song of the lark and the bee!
